YES, AMERICA IS NATION---STEINER

NOT MERELY CONGLOMERATE OF RACES, HE SAYS.

GREAT ADDRESS AT NORMAL GRADUATION

Lyceum Orator Discusses Elements Making National Life to 1916 Graduates.

"Are we really a nation in this United States of America or are we merely a conglomeration of peoples," was the question asked by Edward A Steiner in his address to the senior class of the State Normal school this morning.

That question might be given as the subject of the magnificent lecture or rather simple talk, by one of the leading lyceum and chautauqua men of the country. He is president of Grinnell College in Iowa.

Maryville had little of which to be proud of the hearing which was given to Doctor Steiner. The Normal auditorium, even if it does hold more than a thousand people, should have been filled on the occasion of a man so universally honored as is the man who made the commencement address this morning.

Doctor Steiner came from Austria twenty-eight years ago as an immigrant and is the most respected authority in America today on the subject of the immigrant. His entire speech dealt more particularly with the problems of the mixture of races in this country.

"Someone has said that we are a nation merely as far up as the stomach line, meaning that we are bound together economically but not spiritually or mentally," said the speaker. "It is for that reason more than anything else that the cry is going forward that we must prepare, we must equip ourselves for military service and incidentally get a better spirit of unity.

What a Nation Consists Of.

"A nation is defined as an ethnic unit upon a geographical unit. But no nation today is an ethnic unit, that is, there is no pure race left in the world. We are all a mixture. The United States, China and Russia come the nearest to being a geographical unit but they are not perfect.

"Another great aid toward the making of a nation is a common language. We in America have yet to become conscious of the great heritage we have in such a vast and productive country and the general speech of all the people. We are not sufficiently grateful.

"But it is possible as we have seen nations with many races among the people and such countries as Switzerland and Belgium show that a nation is possible without a common language. The Jews are a great example of a nation existing without a land. They still possess Palestine spiritually although not a foot of the soil is theirs. There is just one thing therefore, that is absolutely essential to the national existence and that is a common history."

Dr. Steiner said that as he looked into the American histories being taught in our schools and thought of the books which he studied as an Austrian schoolboy, he gloried and exulted in the lives of such men as Washington and Lincoln. He said that he regretted extremely that history has to be written so closely around war for the people to realize their common weal, but that since it has seemed necessary in the past, he was wonderfully uplifted to know that America's wars have not been those of greed or oppression, nor of a dynasty struggling to retain its power but the struggle of a stronger power in behalf of a weaker, an unselfish pouring out of one's life-blood for others.

His Definition of Americanism.

"And that is my definition of Americanism, that undergoing of terrible suffering for others. I have a twin brother. We are alike in every way physically but he has remained in Vienna and is an Austrian thoroughly. On the other hand, I have now been a citizen of the United States for twenty-eight years. I see and appreciate this gift of America to the world.

"And so I say to you that every drop of my blood may be taken — and I am willing to give it for this United States — every ounce of it may be tested and it will be found absolutely American."

This declaration of the "greatest immigrant,, was greeted with a demonstration by the assembly.

Doctor Steiner had introduced his discussion of this element of true Americanism by telling the answer to three questions which had been asked by a reporter for an Iowa paper, who had said that he merely wanted to ask the great lyceum speaker three simple questions.

The three simple interrogations were: "Who started the European war?" "When will it close?" "What is going to happen when it does end?"

"Adam," said Dr. Steiner in answer to the first question. "When someone gets seriously licked and knows it," for the second, and "I don't know," for the third. He added however, that we are sure to face an absolutely different world. All nations, including America, must rise from the cataclysm most radically changed.

All Seriously Licked Now.

"Of one thing I am sure and that is that all are seriously licked now but

SCHOOL NOW ESTABLISHED

Superintendent Gass and W. A. Blagg Talk of Past and Future—Large Senior Class.

The largest crowd that has ever attended a commencement of the Fifth District Normal School were present this morning to hear Dr. Edward A. Steiner and to honor the 1916 class. The address of Doctor Steiner is given in an adjoining column.

President Ira Richardson, members of the board of regents and the Rev. G. S. Cox, who pronounced the invocation, had seats on the platform with the speaker. The chorus and singers under the direction of Prof. H. B. Schuler lived up to their promise of a treat by giving some worth-while music.

After the address of Dr. Steiner, two speeches in honor of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the school here were given. H. A. Gass, state superintendent of schools, a member of the original and present board, spoke of the pride of the state in the school and its progress. W. A. Blagg, the president of the board now, spoke of his gratitude for the support of Maryville to the school and the great joy that comes to the administration for knowing that the affairs of the school are now firmly established.

President Richardson announced that 3,656 individuals have attended the Normal in the ten years past for a total term enrollment of 11,110. Two hundred and twenty-nine new students who have never been here before, are enrolled this summer. During the ten years, 521 certificates for work of one year beyond the high school course have been granted; 289 life certificates, 10 specials for graduate work and 7 advanced diplomas for one year's work beyond the life certificate diploma.

Dean George H. Colbert presented this year's class to President Richardson who delivered the diplomas to the graduates. Their names are given in the following: A song "Goodbye" by a quartette of Prof. H. B. Schuler, William Utter, Edgar Hull and Morris Fitzgerald closed the program. ## PARADE IS PLANNED

STILL ANOTHER FEATURE FOR THURSDAY HERE.

BEFORE FLAG RAISING

Harry H. Gardiner Gives Interesting Account of How He Became "The Human Fly."

A parade has been added to the other features of Thursday. The idea has grown daily and visitors may be sure that many pleasures not yet told of are in store for them on Maryville's Birthday, June 15.

The parade will be formed at Fourth and Buchanan street Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It will proceed south on Buchanan to Second street and then east to Main, north on Main to the band stand.

The Fourth Regiment Band will lead the parade followed by the W. O. W. team, who will form the guard for the flag pole.

"Uncle" Jimmie Saunders, who raised the first flag will come next followed by the members of the D. A. R. the W. R. C. and the G. A. R. and others who desire to fall in line.

The flag which will be used for the occasion is being made by Mrs. T. L. Robinson, a sister of Mrs. Jimmie Saunders, who made the first flag and by Mrs. George L. Wilfley, a daughter of Mrs. Saunders.

An address will be given by a prominent citizen on the historical significance of Flag day and this individual flag raising including a short historical review of Maryville.

How "Fly" Got Started.

Harry Gardiner, the "Human Fly" who is the leading attraction Thursday, in conversation Sunday told just how he happened to become a "Human Fly."

Twenty-three years ago he thrilled crowds at country fairs by jumping from a balloon in one parachute. Soon a number of men were doing the same feat and he dropped from the balloon with two parachutes then three and finally quit when so many others got in the game.

He then became a trick bicyclist, looping the loop first and getting by with his thriller until it was duplicated.

Then he introduced the feat of leaping the gap and driving on a bicycle but every feat was soon duplicated.

He finally went to New York and one day as he was passing the Singer building the idea came to him that if a man could climb a building like that the feat would probably never be duplicated. He went to his home and studied out just how it should be done.

Mr. Gardiner commenced to put his theories into practice. He also took a few of his friends into his confidence and one day when he felt sufficiently well trained he told his friends that he was going to climb the Singer building.

No one but these friends knew what he was going to try to do. He made the first story and a few of the many people on the busy New York street stopped to look. As he progressed up the side of the building from story to story the crowd filled the streets in every direction and traffic was demoralized and the "Human Fly" climbed to the top.

In the short time that it had taken to demonstrate to the public what could be done Gardiner found the fame and notoriety that would make him known all over the world with a feat that could not be duplicated.

Since that time, thirteen years ago, he has been a climber of tall buildings, but until the last three years confined his work to doing thrillers for the "movies." Trick photography took that job away from him.

State and War Departments Trying to Get New Troops to Border Before Answer.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, June 13.—With an avalanche of official reports reaching Washington telling of the "worst Mexican situation yet," officials of both war and state departments fear even more trouble in the near future.

Efforts are being made by the war department to have 1,500 additional soldiers already ordered, stationed at the border before Carranza is told officially that American troops will not be withdrawn.

It is believed that the White House has drastically changed its views on the Mexican situation and it is believed that stronger measures will be taken.

TO BREAK RECORD FOR QUIETNESS

HARMONY SEEMS INEVITABLE AT ST. LOUIS.

WILSON---MARSHALL WITHOUT A DOUBT

Bryan Insists Emphatically He Will Not Fight Any Provisions of Platform.

THE ST. LOUIS PROGRAM.

For Wednesday — Keynote speeches.

For Thursday—Speeches and platform.

For Friday—More speechmaking, one nomination and several score of seconding motions—and speeches—for that nomination.

For Saturday—Beginning at midnight, one roll call on a presidential candidate; one roll call, after some more speeches, on a vice presidential candidate.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

St. Louis, June 13.—Wilson and Marshall will be the ticket named by the Democrats when the convention assembles tomorrow. They will be named by the consent of the Wilson administration.

The leaders on the ground are confident that at the last moment all opposition fostered here for the purpose of paying off minor political grudges will be wiped out.

The suggestion "don't broach" is still in the air but the administration is determined that it shall not be pressed to the point that rancor and bitterness be engendered that may imperil party success in states that now are considered Democratic safely.

After a long distance conversation with President Wilson the Indiana organization passed the word that Wilson will surely line up for Marshall.

The Democrats fully realize that the coming campaign will be one which will eclipse any recent political records.

Bryan Won't Fight Platform.

Every incoming train brought its quota of delegates and visitors.

"A platform that will tempt Progressives" was the proposal brought here today by William Jennings Bryan.

When he joined the Democratic leaders making ready for the convention he flatly said he had made no plans for a fight either in the resolutions committee or on the floor.

He said his ideas of peace, preparedness and prohibition are included in the platform.

"I am here as a private citizen Democrat and newspaper reporter," he said.

After his arrival he began a series of conferences with various leaders.

CHILLICOTHE DRY BY 212

Election Passed Off Quietly Although Campaign Was Very Heated.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Chillicothe, Mo., June 13.—Chillicothe is dry again. The anti-saloon men won today's local option election by 212 majority. Thus the saloons here will be closed after four years of palmy days. It was an orderly election, despite the heated nature of the campaign. The drys had made a strong fight, holding open air meetings, and making a house-to-house canvass.

It was Chillicothe's third liquor election. Eight years ago the town went dry by 173, and four years ago the liquor faction won a victory by 19 ballots.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Popham of near Skidmore were in Maryville shopping today.

don't know it. What they need is to get someone to help them let go. And my constant, daily, earnest prayer is that the war may close for I am facing each day with the knowledge that I have not a single male relative between the ages of 17 and 54 years who is not in the trenches.

"We are reading history every day in the papers and the historians' pens are dipped in human blood until we turn away sick and are like the little girl who said that she wished that she might have lived in the time of Queen Elizabeth for it says that in that time education was seriously neglected. We wish that history might be neglected for a time.

"But it really makes our educational work all the more significant. You teachers are to go out into the heart of the greatest nation to help spread common ideals and a common history. I can see even in your faces though I have not seen your names many different nationalities mingling. That is the great gift of America.

"No task so noble nor so far reaching in its nation-making qualities as that of taking information into the minds of children particularly in those places where immigrant children are touched. Language is thicker than blood, and I am very confident that this nation shall endure for thousands of years."

Sixteen at Roosevelt Banquet.

Doctor Steiner told of a banquet given by Theodore Roosevelt in which the Colonel said very characteristically and dogmatically that there were some races that would never mix in America. Dr. Steiner took issue with the statement and asked the sixteen present to tell their ancestry.

Only Dr. Steiner who is all Austrian and Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, whose ancestors came over in the Mayflower, had a single strain of blood. Teddy himself is a mixture of six races, all fighting stocks. One man in the group had eight nationalities within him and the other varied among them.

"Once when I gave this instance a young lady came forward and asked for me to guess at her nationality," said the speaker. "That is one of the stunts which I am often asked to perform since I have taken such an interest in races. When I could not see her forehead since she was wearing her coiffure a la omelet according to the style of that day, she had some ornamental doughnuts around her ears and I could not see "her" complexion, so I was at a loss. She then told me that fourteen races were mixed into her blood.

"She was still intact, however, and it is the great privilege of America in so mingling the nationalities that makes its national consciousness. And we shall stand firm, I confidently believe, although politicians just at this time, are laying awake nights trying to find issues upon which they can divide us."

Miss Frances Smith Returns.

Miss Frances Smith, who has been teaching in the Perry, Okla., schools, returned last night to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Q. Smith. En route home she visited in Oklahoma City with her sisters, Mrs. C. Edward Sturm and Miss Stella Smith, and in Lyndon, Kan., with Miss Helen Leffler.
